Once she finishes the cookie, Cam ends up camouflaging into an orange in the fruit display on the kitchen table and transcends them to an orange farm in Florida. Chloe meets the daughter of the head farmer, Lily. They overhear the head farmer telling all the workers on the farm not to eat the oranges that they pick from the orange trees. Chloe does as she is told, but Lily ends up eating an orange behind her father's back. Once the father comes back, the owner realizes that an orange is missing and Chloe informs Lily that she should tell the truth. Since Chloe is right, Lily tells the truth to her father. Cam blends into the stone of the castle walls and teleports her back to Medieval times to meet Arthur, a knight from England. While she is there, Chloe sees Arthur taking turns with his brother, Frank, to do their favourite activity, ride their horse. To be a knight, Arthur has to excel at riding a horse so he is able to become a successful respected knight in his village. Chloe has never seen prosthetics before, so she and Carlos wonder what it could be. When Sam sat beside them, she tells them that she lost her leg a few years ago. Cam camouflages into the red of Sam's prosthetic leg and for the first time, Chloe teleports with both Carlos and Sam to a playroom inside a children's hospital. There is a bunch of child patients around the room, some in wheelchairs, some who are bald, and some who look very similar to Chloe and Carlos.

Chloe, Carlos, Sam, and all of the patients end up playing games together.

Sam informs Chloe and Carlos that all of these children were patients in the same hospital as her when she got her new leg. Chloe is shocked because they all seem like her and Carlos. Sam tells Chloe, "Even though all of us have a different story, there's still so much we can have in common and enjoy together." When they teleport back to the classroom, Ms. C asks Chloe if she wants to say any welcoming words to their new classmate. Chloe responds, "Yes, welcome to the class, Sam. I think we will all have a lot more in common with each other than we realize."

EPISODE 6 - CHLOE THE NEVER GIVER-UPPER

Chloe has always wanted to learn how to ride a two-wheel bicycle since she could remember, so one day, her mom and Carlos decided to teach her. While Chloe was on the verge of tears talking to Carlos about how hard riding a bike is, Cam camouflages into her bike tire and the three of them teleport to the practice room of a young pianist named Michael. Michael is learning a difficult piano piece for a test he has in a few hours, but cannot get the piece right. He keeps fumbling his finger placement and plays the wrong notes. Chloe and Carlos learn from him that even though something is difficult, it does not mean it is impossible. Michael breaks-down the song bit by bit, playing sections slowly at first. He gradually increases the speed until he can play everything in-time without fumbling. Though Michael knows the piece inside and out, he is still nervous for the actual test. Chloe tells Michael, "just believe in yourself and you will do great! All of that practice you did will make you perform perfectly for the test!" Chloe, Cam, and Carlos watch Michael's piano test, where he plays the piece perfectly. Once Chloe and Carlos teleport back to Chloe's house, Chloe gets back on her bike to try again. She is finally able to stay on the bike and pedal to the end of her street. Chloe's mom exclaims, "oh my goodness, Chloe! You did it!" and Chloe responds, "with practice, I can do anything!"
